

Issues on the agenda of the transatlantic securities markets dialogue

The European Capital Markets Institute and the Centre for European Policy Studies are pleased to invite you for a special roundtable on the 27th of April at 13h30 (until 14h45) with:

Christopher Cox

Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) of the United States

Chairman of this roundtable will be:

Olivier Lefebvre

Member of the Executive Board, Euronext

Chairman Cox will discuss recent developments in securities markets regulation in the US and the regulatory challenges posed by the creation of the first transatlantic securities market.

Location:

Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS)
1, Place du congrès
B-1000 Bruxelles

If you are willing to participate, please reply to Isabelle Tenaerts, isabelle.tenaerts@ceps.be .

About ECMI:

The European Capital Markets Institute (ECMI) was established as an independent nonprofit organisation in October 1993, in a collaborative effort by the European Federation of Financial Analysts Societies (EFFAS), the Federation of European Securities Exchanges (FESE) and the International Securities Market Association (ISMA), now the International Capital Market Association (ICMA). Currently, ECMI is managed and staffed by the Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS) in Brussels. ECMI is an independent entity which undertakes and disseminates research on European capital markets, seeks to contribute in a substantial manner to ongoing policy debates, and acts as a focal point for interaction between academics, market participants and policymakers through its activities. Membership is composed of private firms, regulatory authorities and university institutes.